WORLD LIBRARY AND INFORMATION CONGRESS ▶ 73rd IFLA General Conference and Council ▶ South Africa, 19–23 August 2007

INTRODUCTION

This is the first issue of IFLA Express 2007. IFLA Express is a free conference newsletter serving two purposes. Firstly, IFLA Express contains any essential information that you may need as a participant in order to get the maximum benefit from the conference. It includes programme details such as sessions, plenary speakers and satellite meetings, but also changes in programme, voting details and other relevant information. Secondly, we intend to provide short background articles on subjects of interest to delegates. The second issue of IFLA Express will be published in May/June 2007, another five issues will appear each morning of the conference starting on 19 August and a last issue summarising the conference. •

LIBRARIES FOR THE FUTURE Progress, Development & Partnerships Alex Byrne, IFLA President

Welcome to the World Library and Information Congress 2007 in the sparkling, multicultural city of Durban, South Africa!

It is wonderful to be in this country and region which has been so important in the development of the world. Carbon dating of art in the Drakensberg caves indicates that people first came here from the north some 100,000 years ago. They were followed by the great Zulu nation and later the colonisers and other settlers, starting with Vasco da Gama in 1497, 510 years ago this year. That varied history gave Durban its special character and cuisine, both of which we will enjoy during the Congress week.

But Durban is much more than a spectacular city with a fascinating cultural history. It is important in the history of non violent resistance because it was here that Gandhi first became active. It was also most important in the struggle against apartheid and the creation of the modern South Africa with its commitment to progress and development for all its peoples and partnership among them and with others.

Durban and South Africa are thus most appropriate hosts for the 2007 World Library and Information Congress. In IFLA's 80th Anniversary year, we come together from around the world to discuss important issues for the library and information profession and for the developing global information society. We do so in a spirit of partnership: with our colleagues from other countries and other areas of professional activity, with colleagues in related professions, and with the communities we serve and their governments.

That multidimensional spirit of partnership has been the theme for my Presidency of IFLA. I know that it will pervade and guide our work during this World Library and Information Congress as we focus on the issues which are fundamental to achieving progress and development in our profession and to benefit the peoples of the world.

I welcome all to the World Library and Information Congress in Durban, Republic of South Africa, and thank both the National Committee and the Library and Information Association of South Africa for your warm welcome. We will enjoy stimulating professional dialogue, intriguing cultural experiences and friendly interaction with colleagues from here and across the world. •

WELCOME TO SOUTH AFRICA from Dr Z. Pallo Jordan, Minister of Arts and Culture

It gives me great pleasure to welcome "the world of libraries", that is, the World Library and Information Congress (WLIC): 73rd International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA) General Conference to South Africa.

I would also like to take this opportunity to congratulate LIASA, the national professional body for library and information workers in South Africa, on winning the bid to host this prestigious event in Durban this year.

As the South African government we have recognised the valuable role that libraries play in the knowledge economy, promoting lifelong learning and nurturing social cohesion. The Bill of Rights in our Constitution enshrines everyone's right to access to information. The Promotion of Access to Information Act, passed by our Parliament, further entrenched this right in legislation. In our collective national effort to stimulate socio-economic development and to sustain human rights, the sharing of information is indispensable.

It is my firm belief that information and access thereto through libraries and other means, will continue to play a vital role in furthering democratisation and in promoting human rights and human development in South Africa. Democracy is reliant on an informed public. Giving citizens access to all the information necessary to make informed decisions enriches and enhances democracy. It is as necessary for young learners as it is for mature adults. The concept of lifelong learning would be unattainable without libraries.

In this era, variously dubbed the information age, the challenges we face in South Africa also exist within the global context of the development of electronic information technology and the Internet. Across the world librarians and archivists are debating how this profound revolution is transforming their professions. One of the biggest challenges is the preservation of information in the electronic environment. This complex issue, as you know, affects intellectual property, copyright, legal deposit, archival, and other national issues. Our national institutions, including the National Library of South Africa, Blindlib, the National Council for Library and Information Services, and the Legal Deposit Committee play a vital role in providing the policy for handling these matters of national importance. ▶ page 6

During the congress the IFLA Staff will be at your service to provide you with a wide range of information about the work of IFLA, joining IFLA and becoming actively involved. This is an excellent opportunity to get answers to all your questions. IFLA staff will be available at the IFLA secretariat or at the IFLA exhibition booth.

Website

IFLA has its own website www.ifla.org which is the first point of easy access also for conference matters, you can find the Durban logo on the main page and clicking on that will link you to information on registration, hotels, tours, library visits, exhibition etc. as well as online registration forms and the programme outline. We are hoping to have the Conference

Programme available online in April.

Submitting Conference papers

The conference programme consists of a multitude of open sessions which are organised by different professional groups (Sections, Core Activities, Discussion Groups). Please note that all papers have to be submitted to one of these groups. However, please also note that most of the programme has been established already. All papers approved for presentation at the conference must be registered and coded at IFLA Headquarters. Only those papers received by IFLA no later than 1 June 2007 will be available to conference participants. Individuals invited to speak at the World Library and Information Congress do not receive any funding. Attending is at their own expense.

BILL AND MELINDA GATES FOUNDATION

The Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation is committed to supporting public access to information through no-cost computer and Internet usage in public libraries. The Access to Learning Award is the foundation's way of recognising innovative and successful initiatives that connect people to the information that they require in a timely and effective manner. The Award is now in its eighth year of presentation and the collective work of the recipients provides an enormous wealth of experience and creative ideas. The 73rd session of IFLA focuses on "progress, development and partnerships". We believe that previous recipients of the Award represent and have much to contribute to the wide IFLA community in all three areas.

Funding for African participants to Durban

It is our pleasure to announce that we have found the resources to make available some funding for participation in the next IFLA World Library and Information Congress to be held in Durban, South Africa.

There will be 2 different types:

Library and Information Services are at the core of the information revolution. South African society, including the LIS sector, is being transformed in a concerted effort to eliminate past injustices and inequities. The LIS sector, especially public and community libraries, are facing a huge increase in the demand for their services. I am happy to say that our government is addressing these challenges to promote democracy and the socio-economic development of our country.

I believe the opportunity to host this WLIC/IFLA Conference will endorse LIASA's position as one of the leading library professional associations in Africa. This should impact on the profession nationally as well as on the African continent.

I am confident WLIC/IFLA 2007 will strengthen library development in the region and the rest of the continent. Take this opportunity to make governments, business, commerce and industry sectors aware of the role that libraries can play in the development, growth and wealth of this continent and the rest of the world.

I wish you fruitful deliberations.

Africa's leading conference destination Durban is a vibrant city. Where a blend of local cultures – African, Asian and European – is reflected in a of architectural styles, a melting pot of traditions and colourful cuisine.

Its privileged location on the Eastern seaboard makes it South Africa's only destination offering warm winters and tropical summers – 320 sunny days a year. It is an obvious choice for conference planners, tourists and sports enthusiasts, because this is the city that sizzles and where the sun never sets.

Conveniently situated and highly accessible, Durban is less than an hour's flying time from Johannesburg and once you arrive, everything you need is within easy reach.

For more information, visit: <http://durban.kzn.org.za/durban>

GENERAL INFORMATION

BANKS

South African Banks can accommodate all international transactions and are open Monday to Friday 09:00 to 15:30, Saturdays 08:30 to 13:00. Automatic Teller machines (ATM) are available in most towns and cities and offer a 24-hour service.

Traveller's Cheques and foreign currency notes of all major currencies can be exchanged at any commercial bank. American Express offices and most hotels have exchange facilities for guests.

CLIMATE

The average minimum and maximum temperatures and rainfall figures for this area in August: Minimum (13°C); Maximum (23°C); Rainfall (58mm).

CREDIT CARDS

Most major credit cards are accepted, as well as traveller's cheques in major currencies.

CURRENCY

South African currency works on the decimal system with the one Rand equalling 100 cents. Denominations of Rand notes: R200, R100, R50, R20, R10 - Denominations of Coins R5, R2, R1, 50c, 20c, 10c, 5c. The exchange rate varies.

ELECTRICITY

The electricity supply is 220/230 volts, AC 50Hz. US made appliances may need a transformer. Most delegates will need to bring an adaptor!

FOOD

The cuisine is as varied from fast food outlets and roadside vendors offering everything – including the bunny chow - a half loaf of bread crammed with curry - through sushibars, pavement cafes, friendly pubs to the traditional South African "braai" or barbeque.

IMMUNISATION

No international Immunisation is needed when entering South Africa. The only inoculation requirement is a yellow fever vaccination certificate from travellers entering South Africa within 6 days of leaving an infected area.(see Visa information). Some areas in Zululand are subject to malaria. Before entering these areas, persons are advised to consult a doctor or pharmacist to obtain necessary medication.

LANGUAGE

There are 11 Languages in South Africa: English, Zulu, Xhosa, Afrikaans, Ndebele, Swazi, Northern Sotho, Southern Sotho, Tsonga, Tswana, and Venda. English is South Africa's language of business and is widely spoken throughout the country; therefore English speaking visitors will have no problems.

SAFETY

Although Durban is not a metropolitan like some of the other cities where the IFLA/WLIC has been held, delegates are advised to take the usual safety precautions.

On the street

- Do not publicise your valuables, e.g. camera, jewellery, etc.
- Use credit cards or if not possible, please carry small amounts of cash.
- At night, avoid isolated dark places.
- If you need any information, a policeman or officer will be glad to assist you.
- If you need a taxi, your hotel or the nearest tourism information office can recommend a reliable service.
- It is advisable, when going for a walk, to walk in groups of more than two persons.
- Do not wear your delegate badge on your person when leaving the congress venue.

Visiting sites in rural areas

- Establish how to observe the cultural protocol of that area.
- Visit traditional areas via recognised tourism transport.
- Use registered, qualified tour guides.

Accommodation

- Just like anywhere else in the world, please do not leave your luggage unattended.
- Store valuables in the safety deposit box at reception.
- Keep your room locked, whether you're in or out.
- If someone knocks, check who it is before opening the door.

At the airport

- Always keep your bags where you can see them.
- If you feel uncomfortable with people around you, please go to the nearest security offices.

SHOPPING

A combination of first world sophistication and Africa's entrepreneurial spirit, visitors can purchase African crafts, including unique Zulu beadwork; encounter Africa's market traders and traditional healers; or visit the Victoria Street Market, an Asian emporium offering the largest collection of spices, silks and brassware outside of India.

TIPS

Not all waiters in restaurants and bars get wages and therefore depend on a tip. A 10% tip is expected if you are satisfied with the service.

TRANSPORTATION: HOW TO GET TO DURBAN

The International Airport receives flights from various international and national destinations. Intercity coaches and trains are reasonably priced and depart daily for various destinations.

There's an airport departure tax which is usually included in the ticket price.

VISAS

The following information was received from the Department of Home Affairs in January 2007.

The department will authorise South African Missions abroad to issue visas to participants attending the (Conference), provided they are in possession of an invitation letter and provided further that they are not prohibited or undesirable in terms of the Immigration Act, 2002.

To gain admission to South Africa, it is necessary to be in possession of visas obtainable from South African Missions abroad, if the persons concerned are citizens of countries subject to visa control, as well as valid passports; i.e. passports must be valid for at least 30 days beyond the intended date of departure from the RSA, and should contain at least one unused visa page when presenting the passport for purposes of endorsing a visa or permit.

Immunisation for yellow fever is an entry requirement if the journey starts or entails passing through a yellow fever belt of Africa or South America. According to the list compiled by the World Health Organisation the following countries fall within the belt: AFRICA - Angola, Burundi, Benin, Burkino Faso, Cameroon, Central African Republic, Chad, Congo, Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Gambia, Gabon, Guinea, Guinea-Bissau, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Kenya, Liberia, Mali, Niger, Nigeria, Sao Tome and Principe, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Somalia, Sudan, Rwanda, Tanzania, Togo, Uganda, Zaire. SOUTH AMERICA – Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador, French Guyana, Guyana, Panama, Peru, Surinam, Venezuela.

A list of countries that need a visa and an application form can be found on: <http://www.home-affairs.gov.za>, keyword: visum.
